MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

John Bright's favorite pastime is salmon fishing.

Over $1000 a month is wasted in lottery tickets by the rail hands of Bridgeport, Conn.

About six miles from Pickin, Cal., in the Leadville district, are the Natural Springs, hot enough to boil meat.

Four roads running west from Chicago have added 6700 freight cars to their equipment during the present year.

"Am I badly dressed?" asked a French provincial, while being measured by a well Parisian tailor.

"Simply covered, sir, simply covered."

It is estimated that on the Day of the Assumption, and other fete days of those persons named Marie in Paris, not less than $15,000 are spent in lilies.

A professional well digger in Sandersville, Ga., is a blind negro. He is also a roofer, and puts on boards and shingles in as straight a line as though he had perfect sight.

The London Sanitary Record finds in the fact that the number of marriages in England in the quarter ending March 31 was below the average in forty years, the plainest proof of the prevailing depression.

"W. H." writes to the Country Gentlemen, "Put your horse, pet your dog, be very kind to your cows, but never pet a bull." "W. H." petted one which ran at him while he was feeding him, and for a timely pitchfork, would have put a horn through him.

Writing to a Salt Lake lady, of polygamy, John G. Whittier says: "How to deal with this great evil I confess is to me a difficult problem. While it exists, I trust that Congress, however demoralized by party politics, will not admit Utah as a State into the Union."

The large railroad companies keep as careful a record of a locomotive and its performance as ship owners do of an ocean steamship. The Pennsylvania Railroad does not repair one if the cost will exceed $3000. The engine is then marked as dead on the record, and is either sold or broken up.

Vaccination appears to have untold terrors for the country folk of Germany. A woman of Mellenberge, who was repeatedly notified to submit her child of eight months to the operation, and was threatened with arraignment in court if she did not comply, jumped with the baby into the Fulda. Both were drowned.

He was told to remain after school, when the teacher, trying to impress upon his youthful mind the sinfulness of not speaking the truth, asked him if they did not tell him, in the Sunday-school, where bad boys went who told falsehoods. Choking with sobs, he said: "Yes, ma'am; it's a place where there is fire, but I don't just remember the name of the town."

Drawn Down to His Death.

From the New York Sun.

Patrick Connors of Brooklyn was employed with a number of others in Beard & Robinson's warehouse at the foot of Van Brunt street, shoveling grain into a chute leading to a lower floor. After the chute was closed a heap of grain nearly eight feet high was shoveled over its mouth, ready to descend whenever the chute was reopened to renew the supply of grain below. Connors lay down on the grain pile and went to sleep. While Connors slept the chute gate was opened and the grain began to pour down to the second floor. Before Connors awoke the powerful suction had begun to draw him into the chute, and he could not extricate himself. He was drawn through and suffocated by the grain and dust. The body was extricated with difficulty, and the ambulance surgeon was unable to restore life.

The First Ballet in America.

The first French ballet in New York was given at the Bowery about 1827. Mme. Hutton, the principal dancer, on appearing in her brief and gauzy costume, was greeted with a storm of hisses, which ended in an uproar and the departure of many from the theatre. The curtain was rung down and no further performance given that night. There was a general attack upon the troupe in the papers of the next day, and the exhibition was characterized as the most shameful and indecent ever presented in the city. The consequence was that standing room could not be found the following night on the rising of the curtain. The house was black with men only. Within a week, however, a few ladies appeared, and before the end of the month fashionable New York had flocked in large numbers to the theatre.

Boy Shot by Indians in Idaho.

Boise City, September 19.—On the 17th, about 3 o'clock P. M., a son of James Balerline, 16 years old, while hunting stock five miles above their ranch, on Upper Squaw Creek, and fifty miles northwest of this city, was shot by an Indian. The ball entered the back just below the shoulder blade, and came out near the right nipple. The boy stuck to his horse, and rode home very weak and faint, but was able to give an account of the shooting. Doctor Rothwell, of Placerville, was sent for and thinks it possible that the boy may recover.

How Russians Prevent Horse Stealing.

The establishment of a system of horse passports is now under consideration by the Russian government. The measure is suggested, not in view of political danger from the equine race, but in order to prevent a misfortune that often happens to the horses themselves, namely: horse-stealing. According to this curious project, the birth, peculiar signs and death of every horse must be recorded, and the proprietor of a horse or horses is to be furnished with a horse passport that will entitle him to the legal possession of said horse or horses. Now, as a horse-thief cannot possibly steal both the horse and its passport, he cannot sustain his right to the possession of a stolen horse. This is the essence of the wit and wisdom of the Russian official in this matter.

A Horse's Great Jump.

The greatest jump ever taken by a race horse was recently taken at Birmingham, England. During the jumping contest at the horse show, Mr. Robert Leaman's hunter, Surrey, ridden by Mr. Henry Grayson, made such a splendid jump over the mimic brook as to set the great audience applauding frantically. The horse, wild with excitement, went right on down the ring, and, rising at the barrier of the amphitheatre, with one tremendous bound literally sailed over the bars and five rows of spectators, alighting in safety and injuring nobody. The distance was measured and proved to be 37 feet.

The Lexington Races.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 12.—The first race to-day, 1 1/4 miles, had seven starters: General Pike, Montreal, One Dime, Vender; Trinidad, Aureolus and Ada Glenn. It was well contested, and was won by One Dime, a head before Ada Glenn second, Aureolus third. Time, 3:05 1/4, half a second faster than the fastest time on record for the same distance. One Dime ran the last half-mile in 49 seconds.

The Newest Form of the New Bonnet Joke.

From the Boston Journal

"I wish I were you about two hours," she said to her husband, with great tenderness. "And why, my dear," he asked. "Because," she said, "I was affectionately with his watch chain, 'because then I would buy my wife a new bonnet.'"

Abolishing Slavery in Africa.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—A correspondent writes to the Times that King M'tesa, ruling near Victoria Nyanza, Africa, has abolished slavery throughout his dominions. At least half a million of slaves were to be liberated on Saturday.

Dr. Mintie's Nephreticum.

DR. MINTIE'S NEPHRETICUM works wonders. In all cases of Dropsy, Bright's Disease, Kidney, Bladder and Urinary Complaints, or Retention of Urine, these troubles are entirely cured by the Nephreticum. Female Weakness, Gravel, Diabetes, pain in the back side and loin are cured when all other medicines have failed.

See what the Druggists of Portland and San Francisco say about Dr. Mintie's Nephreticum and English Dandelion Pills:

"We have sold a large amount of Dr. Mintie's medicine; the English Dandelion Pills; also the Nephreticum, and in all cases they are highly spoken of and give entire satisfaction."

John A. Childs, Druggist, Second street, Portland.

C. H. Woodward & Co., Druggists, corner First and Alder street, Portland.

Messrs. Abrams & Carroll, Wholesale Druggists, Nos. 3 and 5 Front street, San Francisco, say:

All Druggists keep these medicines.

For Biliousness and Dyspepsia, Use Dr. Mintie's English Dandelion Pills.

For Fever and Ague, Use Dr. Mintie's English Dandelion Pills.

Every family should keep the English Dandelion Pills on hand.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES

The public are already much interested in the Presidential question. The prospects of different candidates are freely discussed in all parts of the country. The contest may be said to have already fairly commenced. The Philadelphia Times has been enumerating the aspirants whose names have been put before the people through the medium of the newspapers. It counts up forty-four in all. Of the forty-four, twelve are United States Senators, six members of the House of Representatives, three members of the Cabinet, three Governors of States, and one the present occupant of the Vice Presidential chair. All are or have been officer-holders. Of this distinguished forty-four thirty are lawyers, five West Point men, three jurists, two merchants, one is a manufacturer, one farmer and one journalist. There are eight men in the list over sixty years of age, and five under fifty years, the others being between fifty and sixty. Ohio, of course, supplies the most numerous crowd, seven, while New York furnishes six aspirants.

The Times continues: The eight gentlemen—five Republicans and three Democrats—who appear to take the lead in the race are (to arrange them alphabetically so that no hearts may be broken): Thomas A. Bayard, James G. Blaine, Roscoe Conkling, George F. Edmunds, U. S. Grant, John Sherman, Allen G. Thurman, and Samuel J. Tilden. Senator Bayard has been declared for by the political clubs in this city, in Delaware, and perhaps fifty influential newspapers. Senator Blaine, who is the only man on the list without a profession of trade, unless politics be a legitimate trade, is a popular, and his own candidate. Senator Conkling is strong because of his State. Senator Edmunds is one of the ablest men in the Republican party, and, therefore, the figure of its best element. General Grant is known by his boom, as it were. John Sherman is the financial and Administration candidate, with what he regards as the pivotal state wheeling under him like an entry-clerk's chair, as he throws speeches east, west, north and south. Senator Thurman is to Bayard as an elevator full of Ohio corn is to a half peck of Delaware peaches. Ex-Governor Tilden owns New York, perhaps, and then perhaps he doesn't. These are the big men and the stable is full of dark horses.

San Francisco gave Grant a reception that has never had a parallel on this coast. The whole city turned out to greet him. Every imaginable demonstration of rejoicing was made at his safe return to his country. His entry into San Francisco was a perfect ovation. An immense procession was formed in his honor, the like of which San Francisco never witnessed. Late in the evening, after he had at last reached his quarters at the Palace Hotel, in response to tumultuous cheering, Grant appeared and made the following characteristic speech:

Fellow Citizens of San Francisco:—After twenty-five years' absence I am glad to meet you, and assure you of my cordial thanks for the kind greeting you have given me. I shall stay in your city long enough to more fully greet you.

Work on the Nevada Central.

From the Battle Mountain Messenger.
Gen. Ledlie, the principal contractor, has let over eighty miles of the grading to Messrs. McGregor and Blossom, to be completed in 60 days. W. N. Mason, Superintendent of the Grade Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, has received orders to ship twelve of his most improved New Era Railway Excavators and Graders, which will be here in ten days, and will enable the grading of two miles per day. Mr. Mason will remain here and operate the machines to give a start. About two miles of this end is already completed and accepted. Engineer parties are hard at work at Rock Creek and Mound Springs, and another party will go to the canyon early next week.

Crops in Nevada Without Irrigation.

From the Battle Mountain Messenger.
The practicability of growing grain without irrigation is gaining the public confidence. Wherever a squirrel drops a grain of wheat or barley it has been noticed that the grain comes up and grows finely. Hundreds of witnesses can testify to this. Frank Dickinson harvested his crop the other day and got 2000 bushels of barley off 60 acres. G. W. Hepperly got 800 bushels off 30 acres. Neither crop had one drop of artificial irrigation.

The movement of beef cattle from Nevada to California is at present quite steady, averaging ten or twelve car loads per day.

The Bodie Standard says: The seeker for a "better country" struck Bodie Wednesday evening, and after taking six of the celebrated "Giant Powder Cocktails," a local beverage, concluded to move on to Mammoth.

An official statement of the receipts, from all sources, of the Twenty-sixth California State Fair, gives a total of $22,615 10. While less than the receipts of the previous year, this income is good, as the Society had no money to expend for improvements this year, and they are thus enabled to raise $5000 of the old indebtedness standing against the Society.

Last Sunday night, in Adin, the Hankys says, a drunken man whooped and yelled about town like a wild Comanche Indian, shot off his revolver in the streets many times, and after tiring of this shameful conduct, attempted to "hang up" for the night in a private residence. His crazy conduct frightened the females of the household, so that they ran into the streets, and called for help.

Professor Stewart writes from New York that the refusal of superintendents of mines in Nevada to admit visitors on certain specified days to the mines, or rather the decision of the supreme court invalidating the law passed by the last legislature granting such privileges to stockholders, is likely to destroy all chance to sell Nevada mining stocks in that city.

The Carson Appeal says the wife of John L. Crawford, who was recently sent to the state prison from White Pine for cattle stealing, came to this city to implore a pardon for her husband, who she says, was prosecuted by parties conspiring to deprive him of his property, which they succeeded in doing. She says that prior to the arrest of her husband they had a good home, plenty of cattle and a stock ranch, all of which have been stolen by the men who conspired against his liberty and prosperity. They did not even leave her blankets. She has four children to support and not a dollar in the world.

Opening of the New Theater.

Manager Piper, of Virginia, with a Juvenile Pinafore troupe, will open Hammond & Wilson's new theatre next Monday evening, the 29th inst. His engagement is for two nights only. The carpentry work is almost completed, requiring only a few finishing touches. The theatre is considered by every visitor to be the prettiest of any in the State. The work is highly creditable to the builder, C. R. Upson. Laycock is still at work upon the scenery, which is being done in his best manner. The drop curtain and most of the scenery have been completed. This afternoon the drop was lowered for the gratification of a number of visitors, and all were warm in their praise of the artistic skill displayed in its execution. The scene depicted is St. George on the Rhine, one of the most beautiful views on that famous river. It is without exception the handsomest curtain in Nevada. Laycock, himself, says that he has never done anything finer. It is safe to say that the opening night will draw a crowded house.

Reno's Interest in Grant.

As soon as the news of Grant's arrival reached Reno last Saturday, locomotive whistles were blown, and in a few minutes flags were displayed on every staff in town. Great interest is taken here in the arrival of Grant, and when the General passes through much enthusiasm will be manifested. At a meeting of the Trustees of the State Fair on Saturday a resolution of invitation to General Grant was passed. C. C. Stevenson and C. C. Powning, now in San Francisco, were appointed a committee to convey the invitation to the General. Mr. Powning was notified by telegraph of their action. Should Grant be in this neighborhood at the time of the Fair, and honor it with his presence, he will be the great attraction of the show.

EAST END NOTES.

Public Library—C. P. R. R. Items—Business Jobs—Amusements—Deaths.

WADSWORTH, Nev., Sept. 22d.

ED. GAZETTE.—The seeming dullness of the little town of Wadsworth is more pressing than actual, nor does it prevent an ex-quilldriver from finding items, which are of interest to the county readers of the GAZETTE, and which indicate, in a meagre way, the activities of this place.

Here is a village of 400 inhabitants, located at the great bend of the Truckee, and in juxtaposition to the great desert which extends for miles to the east. Barren hills surround us on all sides. A large basin covered with sand, on which little or no vegetable life save the invincible sagebrush may grow; an occasional lizard and horned toad has survived in the struggle for existence, and, at intervals of time, the persistent sage hen, which nature kindly provides for, quite miraculously can subsist. Through this once fertile area the noble Truckee, doubly endeared to us, meanders. The iron rail has linked us to the more favored tracts. The shriek of the locomotive dispels the almost insurmountable difficulties, makes possible our resources and instructs us in the contest for positive success. We live, and the following gives the reader some conception of our status.

EDUCATIONAL.

Last June several employees of the C. P. R. R. conceived and matured plans for a public library, and on the 30th of that month organized what is known as the "Engineers and Mechanics' Library Association of Wadsworth." Jas. Wright was elected President; A. S. Chippenger, Vice President; J. C. Erb, Secretary; Geo. Gregg, Treasurer. Directors, Thos. Cullen, Robert Drought, and F. Shubert. The Master Mechanic, Mr. Geo. Gregg, advanced $100, and many members paid dues in advance. With the amount thus raised the nucleus of an excellently good library was purchased. Quite a number of good books were contributed by the following named Renosites: Messrs. Sunderland, Walker, Pariah, Williams and Major Mann. We will permit me here to express in a public way the thanks of the library association to the above gentlemen for their appreciated generosity. Ingling through this library I found that it contains 280 well selected volumes, embracing for the most part a number of the leading works in fiction, popular science, history and art. The railroad company provided a library room, tables, a fine chandelier, chairs and two splendid book cases; and as soon as the future location of the round houses of the Truckee division shall have been definitely established, will provide and furnish more comfortable quarters for the use and benefit of the association. For current reading I found in the room four daily and six weekly newspapers, also several magazines. The present membership is 90, nearly all of whom are employees of the railroad company. The association keeps itself in funds and is enabled from time to time to purchase new books by monthly dues of 50 cents per capita.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOL.

at this place is presided over by a lengthy, cadaverous individual, hailing from the county's metropolis. Between 40 and 50 pupils are under his benign tutelage, and are threatened with progress in their studies if the present favoring circumstances will only hold out. As the writer, however, has a mild prejudice in favor of the pedagogic and scholars in question, further comment is unsolicited, and each with his and their cares and duties will be permitted to pursue unmolested their quiet way.

C. P. R. R. ITEMS.

One conductor and several brakemen have recently been given a vacation for allowing trains to beat their way over this division. Other train men may suffer for not being as strict as the head officers demand. But, notwithstanding the vigilance exacted, and the occasional life forfeit to a tramp for his rashness, the penniless do ride. The machine shops here are in bad repair. This and other facts lead one to the conclusion that the Company is yet undecided in reference to changes soon to be determined and effected upon, which will more or less affect this division, which extends from Truckee to Winnemucca, a distance of 235 miles. The number of mechanics and other employees about the round house and machine shops, is less than formerly, and now number not more than thirty men. There are about fifty engineers and firemen on the division, and thirty locomotives in almost constant use. Saturday noon the machine shops had a narrow escape from burning down. Some sparks from the furnace stack fell on the dry shingles of the roof, and the flames began their work, and but for the immediate action of the mechanics a large amount of the Company's property would have rapidly been consumed. Business along the line has very much improved, a special increase being noticed in the shipments of cattle.

BUSINESS IN WADSWORTH.

Business in and about Wadsworth is quite dull at present, owing in part to the general dullness of the times, and a decrease in the freight business to the mines south of this place. A number of the teamsters have withdrawn their teams, and put them on the road between Carson and Bodie. Nearly all of the bullock from Grantsville, Lane, Belleville and other points south of here, is now freighted via Astoria to Battle Mountain, and from the latter point to San Francisco. How much Wadsworth will be affected by the railroad, to be, from Austin to Battle Mountain, is a problem of course for future solution. The factors at present are not all collected, nor are those known clearly apprehended. In a subsequent letter I may have more to say on this point; also in regard to the southern mail facilities and the changes soon to be made.

AMUSEMENTS.

than the pale face, funds fishing a most remunerative employ. But Wadsworth's strong suit is croquet. Nearly every family has a croquet set, and after the mechanic has left his shop and enjoyed his evening meal, he, with a few friends, passes an hour or more in the pleasant exercise. And if there are those who have not the "little gifts of heaven" running about the house to call them by familiar names, or to climb the parental knee "the envied kiss to share," who play croquet and if they do talk and act in the old fashioned way, whose business is it up in Reno? Wadsworth also had a base ball club, but it came to grief; the cause being such slight reasons as follows: "One fellow lost his front teeth for failing to remove his mouth from the line of a dead red 'hot' from the bat. A second man had one eye severely blackened, for simply letting a liner from the short stop pass through his hands. A third member nearly had his leg broken by stepping in a hole, whilst he was in pursuit of a fly ball, and a fourth participant in this healthful exercise permitted a ball, sent 'quick to the third base,' to disconcert the natural arrangement of two fingers, and necessitate the amputation of his thumb. A new doctor has 'come to town,' which greatly increases Dr. Springstead's desire for the club to reorganize. Last Saturday evening two young ladies of this burg gave a soiree at Gladding's hall. The usual comments pertaining to, successful parties are quite true when applied to this one. It could only bear one character, nor was it possible for it to be otherwise than thoroughly enjoyed. The ladies' pluck was appreciated, and I trust such very pleasant parties, so informal, bearing such an excellent social spirit, and tending to ungroove one from the prosy business channels of everyday life and make us a social people, may be frequent during this fall and the coming winter. We have not a large number of dancers, but our parties are quite inexpensive, since Mr. Dunn, who furnishes the music, and Mr. Gladding from whom we rent a splendid hall, are content with the most moderate remuneration. In both particulars we are indeed fortunate.

DEATH.

One has but to turn a page in life's history and the scene is all changed. But a moment ago we were vividly looking upon a scene where care and sorrow were strangers. Just by the side of the light comes the shadow, where sorrow sits sad and veiled, and we do not disturb her, for she seems on a duty the human hand cannot understand. Four days ago Mr. Geo. A. Campbell, wife and two children, got off the emigrant train here, the father to be carefully removed to his death bed, and those the nearest to him to follow him for the last time into a room in a strange land, they young, on the threshold of life, poor, tired, half sick, and to minister to him, yesterday morning parted their company, leaving them the inanimate casket of the spirit fled. Mrs. Campbell has a brother in San Francisco who is city editor of the Chronicle. The remains of the deceased were buried here this afternoon, and Mrs. Campbell with her children will take the next train for San Francisco.

THE JUPITER-OWYHEE ROW.

Another Outbreak in Bodie—Daly and Five Other Men Forced to Leave the Town.

Private advices from Bodie give news of fresh trouble over the Jupiter-Owyhee case. The George Daly again took possession of the Jupiter claim last Saturday, with a force of fifteen men. Towards night an immense crowd, said to number seven hundred men, went to the mine and ordered Daly to leave the place. Their action was based upon a resolution by the Bodie Miner's Union. The citizens also held a meeting and agreed not to sustain Daly. The Union gave Daly and five men of his party, forty-four hours to leave town. At last accounts Daly had agreed to leave Bodie, and no further trouble apprehended.

A Natural Curiosity.

J. S. Tallman handed a GAZETTE reporter this morning a piece of rock from the now famous soap mine near Elko. The rock is of a soft reddish cast, greasy to the touch and in water soaks into a pulp, very much like Castile soap in appearance. It contains silicate of alumina, oxide of iron, boracic acid, magnesia and native silver. Mr. Tallman is going to try some experiments and may introduce its manufacture here.

CONCERNING FUNERALS.

Rev. Mr. Janney's Discourse in Trinity Church Yesterday Morning.

After introducing his theme yesterday morning, Mr. Janney said as follows: I want to speak to you thereupon upon the subject of funerals. I want to speak plainly, and yet I want to speak in all love and kindness. I here solemnly protest that I am not referring to a single individual, or to a single funeral. I am speaking in general terms, and I can do so all the more freely as the last three or four which have taken place from this church have been conducted—quietly, reverently, and without ostentatious display.

In the first place, I believe it to be wholly and morally wrong to exhibit a corpse in church to the curious gaze of all. I sometimes wonder that the insatiable ghost of the dead person does not haunt the dreams of the unthinking friends for permitting such a thing. It is wrong for two of many reasons. First, it is an insult to the dead person. Think of the pinched and wasted features. Think of the distressed and agonized expression which is often left after the death agony is over. Think of the sickening odor which is often emitted when mortification has set in. Think of the many disagreeable, horrifying things which so often attend the dead and decaying body of a departed one, and then think of exhibiting these to the rude and staring gaze of curious persons, who have no interest whatever in the dead person, and who only look at the corpse to gratify the desire of a morbid curiosity. Think of these things, and then say if you can, that it is not an insult to the departed one! What one of you would want to be made such a spectacle of? What one of you would want to be exposed to the curious gaze of mere sight-seers, when your features were wasted and agonized; when death had stamped out every well-known expression; and when the worms had made a prey of your body? Not one of you! I am morally sure of that! Then what right have thoughtless friends to do for you that which you yourself would not permit if you were alive and could speak for yourself? What right have they to make a spectacle of you when every fine sensibility within you revolts at the thought? They have no right, and therefore it becomes a crying insult to the dead one, and a grave wrong.

Again, it is wrong, because it gratifies and cultivates this morbid and wrongful curiosity. How few of us realize how strong this passion grows; how soon the desire to see dead persons increases; and how hurtful it is. The body is a sacred thing of God's creation. It is not a curious thing to be gazed at by curious persons. I believe it to be wholly and morally wrong to exhibit it in church and being wrong, of course it ought not to be done. I ask therefore that the custom be no longer continued in this church. I ask that it be no longer expected, for it cannot be allowed. It is against the principles of the church, as well as against the dictates of good taste. The last look should be taken at the house. That is the proper place, and there it is perfectly right. No true friend objects to going there. If they wish again to see the remains of one whom they have known and loved in life, the house of that friend is the proper place. The church certainly is not. And, therefore, from this time on, in this church, the lid of a coffin can never be lifted so that the pinched, wasted, decaying, yet sacred body, may be exposed to the rude gaze of curious sight-seers. And again, I believe it wholly and morally wrong to make promiscuous funeral addresses. The reasons for this are obvious and strong. In the first place, if the friends are in real affliction, they are in no mental condition to listen. They are more or less stupefied. Their thoughts are so distracted that the words of an address fall upon unhearing and unheeding ears. In such a case an address is manifestly out of place. While if the friends are not in real affliction; then, for even a stronger reason, the address is out of place.

But a still stronger reason for not making promiscuous funeral addresses lies even behind this. As a rule, a minister is expected to make an address, not for the purpose of pointing out God's wisdom; not for the purpose of showing His loving providence even in death, but for the sole and avowed purpose of eulogizing the dead. It makes no difference whether his life has been a pure one or not; whether he has been a good citizen, father, husband, friend, or not; whether he has lived as a decent Christian man should live, or not, he is dead, his funeral is public, and therefore the minister is expected to paint his character in the brightest possible colors, send him straight, and swift to Heaven, and this, in the face, often, of the most outrageous life and immoral conduct. I believe that no conscientious minister ever makes a funeral address without being ashamed of it or conscience stricken about it afterward. I do not think he ever does it without feeling that he has either spoken accurately in painting the dead man in brighter colors than he deserved, or that he has spoken unkind words to those who are bereaved and sorrowing, by saying too sharp and severe things about one who is dead and gone, and who is unable to speak for himself. I am not giving my own experience about this matter, I have carefully talked it over with others, and have read their written opinions.

They all bear testimony to the same stern fact. They all agree that in every case, an injury is done somewhere. Either society is injured by a bad man, priest, or theologian, or their friends are made miserable by having him censured and condemned, or the church is stained by the uncalled-for eulogies and laudations by one of her ministers. In every way you look at it, an injury is done, and not only an injury, but a downright harm and wrong. And since this is true, I for one, cannot, in conscience and in sincerity, deliver promiscuous funeral addresses. There are times when a lovely saint dies, when a sermon is most fitting and appropriate. But this should be delivered, not at the time of the funeral, not when grief is so keen that the words are unheeded, but at some subsequent period. This shall be my future rule. Our burial service is made up entirely of the word of God. Neither I nor any man can improve on that. The committal service is so nearly made up of God's word that even so scholarly a man as Henry Ward Beecher once mistook a portion of it for the word of God, when it was not. So then I can not improve on that. And if I can not improve it, why should I blur and mar it by any words of my own? Again I say, while I have tried to speak plainly, I still have endeavored to speak kindly and in love. I again solemnly say, that I have not referred to a single individual, or to a single funeral. I have spoken in general terms.

I ask the congregation to support me in this matter. I am taking this step, not to satisfy any whim of my own, but in the interests of propriety, in the interests of religion, and in the interests of the church. If you do not understand my reasons as given in this sermon, do not go off and malign me, but come to me and first learn what they are. And may God Almighty bless us all as we strive to advance His Kingdom and glorify His name, both now and forever more."

Sir Astley Cooper's Vital Restorative.

The great English remedy—has made more cures of Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, nocturnal emissions, lassitude, inability for mental labor, despondency, and such diseases as are induced by youthful follies and excesses, than all other medicines combined.

It is not a stimulant nor excitant, is perfectly safe to take, is a quick nostrum, and produces results that are wonderful.

Why will you suffer? Send to A. E. Mintie, M. D., No. 11 Kearney street, San Francisco, or the Restorative will be sent. Price, $3 per bottle. Four times the quantity, $10. Try a bottle. Dr. Mintie treats all private diseases successfully.
